Airport marks 90 years as it promotes millage

A celebration was held earlier this month for the 90th anniversary of the Southwest Michigan Regional Airport as the facility prepares to drum up support for its millage renewal.

Airport director Christopher Beckman said the Friends of the Southwest Michigan Regional Airport group organized an event held on June 25 where historical photos of the facility were on display and supporters spoke about the airport's role in the community. Beckman tells us the airport was started in 1936 by community leaders who were looking to the future.

"One of the things they said is, this is for the future of the area," Beckman said. "And so they said, for the future of the area, for Benton Harbor to grow, we need an airport. And they put it together."

"It's amazing to see the things that happened here that you just didn't know about and some pictures of people that you've heard names of. (Those are) the people you heard the stories about and seeing how the airport changed over the years."

Local government and business leaders were invited to the event, which was held in an airport hangar donated by a patron for the occasion.

The airport's millage renewal will appear on ballots August 4 in the communities that are members of the airport authority. That includes the cities of St. Joseph and Benton Harbor as well as the townships of Benton, Lincoln, St. Joseph, and Royalton.

The millage is generally 0.1 mill, although in the city of St. Joseph, it's more because the city uses the facility more than other nearby municipalities. The city of Benton Harbor has no millage for the airport but instead provides a yearly cash contribution to the facility.

The millage was created in 2006.

Come See Who Floats (and Who Sinks) at Rock The Boat 2026!

Summer camp is officially back in session, and this year it floats! United Way of Southwest Michigan's ROCK THE BOAT, Presented by Honor Credit Union, paddles back into the St. Joseph River Channel at the Inn at Harbor Shores on Thursday, July 16 beginning at 5pm! The whole riverfront becomes one giant day camp, and here is the best part, camper: you do not have to build a boat to join the fun. All the fun is right here on the riverfront, and it is free to attend and cheer on our teams.

Now for the news every camper has been waiting to hear. This year, getting to the water is easier than passing the swim test, because you can park easily and hop on a shuttle for free, sponsored by our friends at Visit Southwest Michigan! Buses loop every ten minutes or less from two easy pickup spots: 230 Upton Drive across from the Whirlpool St. Joseph Tech Center, and the Michigan Works! lot at the corner of Main Street and Riverview Drive in Benton Harbor. Park once, hop on, and let us drop you steps from the action. No circling the block, no hunting for a spot, no long hike in the July sun through the grass lot. Bring the kids, bring the grandparents, bring the whole cabin, and leave the parking stress back at the bunkhouse.

Picture it: hundreds of campers cheering from the riverfront, camp anthems playing, friendship-bracelet colors everywhere, and life-size cardboard boats charging through the heats while their crews paddle like mad and pray they stay afloat. Some glide. Some wobble. A few go down in a glorious, soggy heap, and honestly those are the ones the crowd loves most. Whether a boat sails to victory or sinks on the spot, every splash earns a roar from the riverfront.

Hungry after all that cheering? Hit the camp canteen (our food truck row!) and stick around. It is the kind of golden summer evening that begs you to stay a while, soak up the sun, and watch your neighbors do something delightfully ridiculous for a great cause.

Still itching to captain your own cardboard creation? There is time, but not much. Registration stays open only through July 5 at RockTheBoatForUnitedWay.com, so rally the office, the neighbors, or your whole camp crew and claim your slot before the dock closes. Spectators, no sign-up needed. Just show up.

Here is why it all matters. Every dollar raised at ROCK THE BOAT fuels United Way programs that lift families across Berrien, Cass, and Van Buren counties. So when you cheer, snap photos, and ride that free shuttle back to your car at the end of the night, you are part of something bigger than a boat race. You are part of the impact.

Big thanks to Honor Credit Union for presenting this year's event and to Visit Southwest Michigan for keeping the shuttles rolling, plus all of our sponsors whose generosity keeps the channel splashing and the mission moving.

Besides watching the fun, you can get involved in the race by voting for your favorite team in the People's choice voting! Scan their QR code or visit RockTheBoatVote.com to give them a few bucks virtually using your credit card, Apple Pay, or Google Pay!

So mark July 16 on the calendar, plan your free shuttle ride, and meet us at the riverfront for the best day of summer. Whether you come to compete or just to cheer, you will leave with sun on your shoulders, a smile on your face, and the unbeatable glow of doing something good for United Way of Southwest Michigan!

The company, which makes fiberglass-reinforced plastic, announced last week it will support growing demand from North American RV manufacturers in the region.

The $16.8 million investment by Fibrosan will create 32 new jobs in the Cassopolis area and was made possible, in part, by a $200,000 Michigan Business Development Program grant approved by the Michigan Strategic Fund. The Village of Cassopolis is also expected to approve a property tax abatement, along with a State Education Tax abatement for the project.

Fibrosan, a U.S. affiliate of a Turkish composites manufacturer, says the plant will be its first manufacturing operation in the United States.

The new facility will locate in the MEC Smart Park industrial site in Cassopolis.

Governor Gretchen Whitmer says the news will "help cement Michigan as the best place to chase the next big idea."

Commissioners hear proposal for new sculpture at Jean Klock Park

Benton Harbor City Commissioners are reviewing a proposal from a Detroit-based sculptor for a new public art installation at Jean Klock Park.

Foster Willey grew up in St. Joseph and was behind several public art projects in Minnesota before moving to Detroit. Speaking to the city Economic Development and Parks Committee this month, Willey proposed "Lake Deity" for the park. It would be a 15-foot stainless steel piece that he says will pay homage to the importance of Lake Michigan and frame the sun as it sets at the summer solstice.

City Manager Alex Little said the project is a great idea.

"I think that it could have a tremendous value for this community and attract people from all over to come and see this and probably wait to see when it aligns up with the sun as it's setting," Little said.

City Commissioner Juanita Henry had concerns about the piece's 16-foot width, saying she doesn't want to reduce space available for children to play. Willey said the kids ought to love Lake Deity.

"I think it's something that kids will be able to interact with," Willey said. "It's designed so that you can sit on the terraced base and you can do photo ops, weddings, yoga classes."

Henry was also concerned about maintenance of the piece. Willey said stainless steel requires very little maintenance, other than periodic cleaning. He's seeking city commission support to begin fundraising for the installation.

Mayor Marcus Muhammad and Commissioner SaTanna Warren were also supportive, but Commissioners Henry and Diedre Fields wanted more discussion at another committee meeting where a more complete presentation can be made. Muhammad told Willey he'd like to move forward.

"We're a small community, so we don't always move fast," Muhammad said. "However, I think that it's imperative that we begin to move in that direction."

The matter will come back to the committee again next month.

Legislation seeks to protect communities from data centers

State Representative Joey Andrews has announced a new package of legislation intended to protect workers, the environment, and communities from the effects of large data centers.

Andrews was joined by several colleagues last week to discuss a slate of bills addressing different concerns from Michigan residents as more of the projects are proposed.

"What those conversations over the last several months have amounted to is what we believe is one of the strongest proposals for guardrails on data centers anywhere in the nation right now," Andrews said.

Andrews said the package includes bills from multiple lawmakers requiring closed loop systems for water usage in data centers, engineering and sound study reports as part of the approval process, and community benefits packages for large data centers. His bill in the package focuses on energy usage.

"Our bill ensures that no costs from any data center, not just the hyperscale ones, but any data center can be passed on to residents, that they're responsible for their infrastructure and all the costs associated with their build out, and that they have to maintain a minimum threshold that they're paying towards their estimated electric use."

Andrews said another bill in the package would require data centers to maintain decommissioning funds, similar to what's in place for power plants. That way, if a data center becomes obsolete or falls into disuse for some other reason, funds would be available to remediate the site.

Andrews said since the state approved tax incentives for data center projects, the conversation about them has changed and people now have concerns. He said it's the job of lawmakers to be responsive to those concerns.

Preparing for the Heat: Southwest Michigan Seniors Urged to Take Precautions as Summer Temperatures Rise

As the hot months set in across Southwest Michigan, safety is always a concern, especially for elderly residents in Berrien County. High humidity from Lake Michigan often pushes the heat index higher, creating dangerous conditions. Older adults are particularly vulnerable because aging reduces the body's temperature regulation, and many manage chronic conditions or take medications that increase risks of heat exhaustion and heat stroke.

Health and emergency officials urge residents to prepare now. At home, protection begins with a properly functioning air conditioning system. Homeowners should have units professionally serviced ahead of peak heat to ensure they can handle summer demands. During the hottest hours, typically 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., close blinds and shades to block sunlight and keep indoor temperatures down. Fans help circulate air but are not sufficient as the sole cooling method in extreme conditions. Limit oven and dryer use during midday, wear loose light-colored clothing, and take cool showers or baths for quick relief.

Staying hydrated is vital. Seniors should drink water regularly throughout the day, even before feeling thirsty, and eat water-rich foods like fruits and salads. Limit caffeine and alcohol, which increase fluid loss. Plan outdoor activities for early morning or evening. If outside, seek shade, use sunscreen, and never leave anyone in a parked vehicle.

Community resources provide essential backup for those without reliable cooling. When heat advisories or excessive heat warnings are issued, Berrien County Emergency Management often activates cooling centers at public buildings, schools, and township halls. Residents can find current locations by calling 2-1-1 or contacting the Berrien County Health Department or Emergency Management office. Libraries in St. Joseph and Benton Harbor, along with shopping centers and senior centers, offer air-conditioned spaces where even a few hours of relief can make a real difference during extreme heat.

Checking on elderly neighbors, friends, and family members who live alone is one of the most important steps communities can take. A quick visit or phone call can confirm they have access to water and cool air and can provide immediate help if symptoms appear. Many heat-related incidents among seniors occur because early warning signs go unnoticed until it is too late.

Recognizing heat illness early is critical. Heat exhaustion often involves heavy sweating, weakness, dizziness, nausea, or fainting and should be treated by moving to a cool place, loosening clothing, and sipping water. It can progress to heat stroke, a medical emergency with high body temperature, hot red skin, confusion, or unconsciousness. For suspected heat stroke, call 911 immediately, move the person to a cooler place, apply cool wet cloths or a bath, and do not give fluids if unconscious.

By preparing homes, staying hydrated, using community resources, and checking on neighbors, Southwest Michigan residents can help everyone — especially seniors — stay safe during summer heatwaves. Guidance is available from Berrien County Emergency Management, the Michigan Department of Health and Human Services, and Ready.gov.

Homilies from My Momily A Guide for the Next 250

You will quickly realize today's column has quite a few "co-authors" – faithful readers will realize right away that I'm not nearly clever enough to have come up with all of this week's pithy thoughts. Ok, ok, I'm not clever enough to have come up with ANY of this week's pithy thoughts.

I herewith present a compendium of wise proverbs and sayings compiled over the course of 70 years by my mom. What I like best about this collection is how they express what kind of person my mom was – thoughtful, kind, gentle, and modest.

I don't think any of these aphorisms originated in any major motion pictures featuring wizards, hobbits or galaxies far far away; though you may get a feeling while perusing them that they are Dumbledore-ish, Gandalf-ian, even Yoda-esque (but with better syntax).

In sharing these, my train of thought – to the extent that I actually have one – is this: How about MailMax readers help these go viral, and in so doing, get us – as in the U.S. – started on another 250 years we can be proud of!

Oh, and of course, let me know if you've got your own stash of inspiring thoughts along these lines; I'm willing to put all of those that readers send to me into future columns. (Fine print: I reserve the right to tell people I made them up, so don't get all possessive about them.)

Dave Says

Make Sure You Have the Important Things Covered First

Dear Dave,

My wife and I make about $180,000 a year combined. We're also debt-free, and we have no kids. We'd like to start planning to buy a nice piece of land sometime in the near future. Do you have a rule of thumb when it comes to determining what percentage of our savings we should put toward a large purchase like this?

Daniel

Dear Daniel,

Honestly, I'm not sure there's necessarily a specific percentage for this kind of thing. Since you guys are already debt free—and congratulations on that, by the way—I'd advise first making sure you've got a fully loaded emergency fund of three to six months of expense in place. I'd also recommend you have some sort of retirement savings plan going before buying a piece of land.

You two have done a great job with your money, so in your case, it sounds like any other cash you might have sitting around is just wealth. So, if you've got an extra $100,000 sitting in a savings account in addition to all these other things, and you'd rather have $100,000 worth of land instead of that bank account, I'm good with it. Do you understand what I'm saying, Daniel? In my mind, it's more a matter of ratios than percentages.

Now, this would all change, of course, if your household income was $50,000 a year instead of $180,000 a year. And I wouldn't advise anyone to put building an emergency fund or saving for retirement on hold while they saved up to buy a piece of land. There needs to be a sensible balance. And that means making mature, grown-up decisions, and ensuring you have the really important things in life covered first.

Great question, Daniel!

— Dave

REST

A heavy sigh escapes and the shoulders which were tensed now dip into relaxation. Can you picture it? Are you experiencing it?

So many things have pushed the boundaries of our attention, schedule, and time. Many of them are good things. But too many good things can drive us past exhaustion.

Why do we give ourselves over to these things? Some of them feel like obligations, but I bet that many of them are based on choices. You choose the sports programs. You chose the job and agreed to more hours. You choose to respond to the message that sucks you into more than you bargained for. You choose to scroll. You choose to say, "Yes" when they ask for more. Even doing nothing to remove the many demands is a choice. Being accused of this is a burden that makes me feel antsy, not restful.

Perhaps your burden isn't time or energy, but rather emotional weight. You may find it hard to find rest with your mind racing. It can keep you up at night. It rehashes old memories like a bad record repeating the phrase.

Rest? Where can anyone find rest? Rest is a commodity that is easily lost and highly prized.

"Come to me, all you who are weary and burdened, and I will give you rest" (Matthew 11:28). Jesus spoke these words to burdened people. Jesus speaks these words to you.

Jesus wants to give you rest. Stopping precedes rest. There may be some things you need to stop to get the rest you need. If your burden is internal, look to him more than you look to yourself. Rest comes from Jesus, not from within.

Rest comes from knowing that everything is done. Cosmic balances of eternal consequences were weighed on the back of Jesus, not yours. He finished the work God needed him to do to love and accept you. Jesus did it all. So now you can rest.

He liberated you from the rat race of trying to keep up. Your kids don't need to keep up with the competition to succeed. You don't need to outperform to find your value. You don't even need to get rid of your anxious thoughts to be loved. Come to Jesus and find full acceptance, complete love, and rest.

Lay your burdens down before him and take a load off. Stay a while and look at the scenery. See his scarred hands opened to receive you. Glance up at the empty cross that is proof that his work for you is done. Sit down and breathe easy, because your rest is here.

What do you need to stop to rest more often?

Prayer: Dear Jesus, you welcome me to rest in you. Unload my cares, worries, and sins. Help me stop more often to look to you for rest. Amen.

Upcoming Events!

Continuing to share our July events with you, we have multiple of them happening through July 15th, with more on the way!

Starting off with our July Business After Hours at Four Winds Casino Pool in New Buffalo! This outdoor oasis features a pool, two fire pits, poolside service, and The Pool Bar. Bask by the pool and escape the everyday in luxurious chaise lounges or party into the night with entertainment and dining. Please note, the pool itself is only for hotel guests to enjoy, but the rest of the space feel free to utilize and enjoy! Also, after 6:00 p.m., the pool area does turn to a 21+ area.

Four Winds will provide appetizers during the Business After Hours and a 20% food discount to any of their restaurants. You'll also get: (+21) a $10 Free Slot Play coupon and a chance to win a $50 Gift Card! RSVP's are not required but highly encouraged for planning purposes.

Trust me, this space is a tropical paradise - no passport required!

The following week, we're welcoming in not one, but two new doctors offices to Southwest Michigan. Starting off with Level Up Chiro on 810 Highland Ave. C in St. Joseph on Tuesday, July 14th from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m..

Level Up Chiro is a walk-in chiropractic clinic built around one simple idea: quality chiropractic care shouldn't be complicated. No insurance, no appointments, no problem. Transparent pricing from the moment you walk in. Whether you're dealing with back pain, neck tension, or just want to feel and move better, we're here when you need us.

Come out to meet the owner, Dr. Nick Grady, tour the space, and help us welcome this exciting new business to the community. We hope to see you there!

Can't join us? Visit their website at: www.luchiro.com

Wrapping things up with an Open House & Ribbon Cutting Celebration at Lakeside Pulmonary Medicine on July 15th from 4:30 to 7:00 p.m. at 435 Upton Dr., St. Joseph.

Owned by Dr. Corey & Kimberly O'Brien, Lakeside Pulmonary Medicine is reimagining what comprehensive pulmonary healthcare can be. Their focus is to utilize their experience and expertise to provide patients and families care and support for what matters most to them on their health journey. They do this by integrating spiritual care and pulmonary medicine to care for you as a whole person, not just a diagnosis and treatment plan. Their team maintains relationships with primary care, family practice and other providers to communicate and collaborate about your care. Recognizing that health changes impact your life in significant ways, their team is committed to walk with you to support you in navigating these changes. Emphasizing prioritizing your healthcare experience by being relational from the time you call to inquire about an appointment through payment for services and follow-up.

Enjoy light refreshments, meet the team, tour the space, and help us welcome this incredible new practice to the community! Learn more at www.lakesidepulmonarymedicine.com

Lakeside Pulmonary Medicine is accepting new patients beginning July 20, call today to set-up an appointment: 269-588-1994.

That's all for this week! To learn more about your Regional Chamber, as well as other member and partner organizations by visiting our website smrchamber.com. Want to connect directly - feel free to email or call: sspoonholtz@smrchamber.com or 269-932-4040. See you around Southwest Michigan!
